It will take them almost a week to get in shape and repiced.

Action Must Be Taken at Once if the Pool is to Handle the 1921 Crop

WINNIPEG—Official endorsement was given the proposed wheat pool along the lines laid down in the report of the Canadian Council of Agriculture by the board of directors of the United Grain Growers Limited at a special meeting, it was announced.

The principles set forth in the report were unanimously approved and C. Rice Jones, general manager of the United Grain Growers Limited, and F. B. Collier, of Weldon, were appointed to represent the company on the wheat pool committee.
The belief was expressed that action should be started at once if the pool is to be organized, in time, to handle the 1921 crop.

Criticize George's
Settlement Plan

Take Unkindly to the Emigration Suggestion

LONDON—Prominent Lloyd George emigration speech aroused two distinct waves of criticism. The Australian premier who is now here, and to the Calgary Herald representative today that it was ridiculous for the government of the empire to wait until the imperial conference next May. Why not start now to train suitable unemployed; both men and women, so that by May they may be ready to proceed to begin settlement on Canadian or Australian lands. If the British government is really interested in those Canadian and Australian farm experts to select at once and begin to train suitable emigrants and pay their trainers a living wage. It is better that than unemployment doles which has demoralized the best of men and then when spring comes pay the passage to the demons destinations, leaving the Canadian and Australian governments to find the land, provide for the training of training centres and generally shepherd the new-comers until they are fairly established" he declared.

Another type of critic is opposed to the whole principle to state-aided emigration. The London Star, which claims to speak for the British anti-Coalition, Radicals and Labor, charges Lloyd George with "tiffing with the old exploded nostrum of emigration under the empire." It recalls the working class hostility to similar schemes in 1914, and adds: "These delusions apparently come in cycles like comets and other motors. Emigration on a large scale with the export of a disorganised energetic and ambitious citizenry are the very things needed at home."

JUDGE GARRY SPEAKS OUT

Judge Garry, head of the United States Steel Corporation, removes Japan as a menace to the United States. The dancer, he says, faces the other way. "If the two nations check the people of this country will be more to blame than the people of Japan."

Judge Garry denounces "a vicious and deliberate effort to stir up trouble between the people of Japan and the United States." That such an attempt is a disableness feature of one section of American politics and journalism is obvious. In the scheme of things as outlined from the map box the head of the steel corporation would do nothing to retard armament building, but the fact is now, as a disableness feature particularly abhorrent to the business man. In improving relations between the United States and Japan, American business leaders like Judge Garry, with F. A. Vander-lip and Theo. W. Lamont, New York bankers have led the movement from this side of the Pacific—Mentral Star.

LETHBRIDGE—During the year the Southern Alberta Wool Growers shipped sixteen thousand pounds of wool or about 1,400,000 pounds; this is approximately 500,000 pounds more than last year's total. Altogether the total wool clip, including quantities forwarded independently, was valued at $2,000,000.

LUMBER PRICES REDUCED

Our invariable custom is to keep our merchandises priced in harmony with the going market.

General commodity prices are going down.
The trend downward which was bound to come after an exhaustive advance has begun to tell. In line with two previous reductions this fall, we have adapted a new low price list which is a reduction from $2.00 to 25.00 per thousand from the extreme high point last spring.

On goods that have actually declined in price, you're getting the full benefit on the decline. On other items we are anticipating lower values in making a price close to cost, and in some cases lower than the original wholesale cost.

The policy of this Company is to co-operate with you. Loss of dollars and cents at a time like this when our part is part and parcel of our partnership with the public.

Do not lose sight of the high quality of our goods.
We pick this material from a dozen different markets.
We are wood specialists.

The system of a "Spurge Deal" sells the wheels of progress.

The merchant needs the customer. The customer needs the merchant. One cannot exist without the other.

This combination makes commerce.

Let Us Demonstrate

Dear Sirs:

HOW ABOUT YOUR WINTER STORAGE BATTERY?

We are now glad to inform our many friends that we can give them modern battery service. We have so arranged our basement to handle a good many batteries. We have the EXIDE agency and give EXIDE service.

Every owner when he buys his car up for the winter should have his battery properly cared for, neglect to do so means trouble in the spring. There is nothing more important to the owner than a few words of advice regarding his battery.

We have WET STORAGE and DRY STORAGE, but the dry is what we recommend, this stops the life of the battery, the parts being properly treated and placed in individual bins, and upon one week's notice in the spring you receive your battery fully charged and full of PEPS. When the battery is dismantled you will be fully notified in the event of any parts being defective, when ample time is given to have the renewals made, saving yourself the annoyance of discovering it at the time you most need your battery.

The charge for DRY STORAGE is $3.00 per month which includes dismantling, discharging, recharging and reassembling. The WET STORAGE costs $1.50 per month which means a constant trickle all winter, a weekly test being made.

Act now and you will have no regrets in the spring and no new battery to buy.

Yours truly,
ROY SMITH.

A Christmas Tree was held in the Lathom schoolhouse on the night of Dec. 24. Over $100 was collected towards it and we were appreciative of the great interest taken in it by the Lathom people. Special credit is due Miss Barton and Mrs. Kimball for the program they gave. Credit must also be given Mrs. F. Powell, Miss Violet Wurscher and Mr. J. Fessie. He sure is there with bells on when it comes to giving the children a good time. A splendid program was given and everybody enjoyed themselves.

A social evening was given by Mrs. Percy Powell for the young folks on the night of Dec. 26th. Everybody had a good time.

must still be alive. Poor little thing! He was a little fat but a little fat run to get assistance from his neighbors. A mile and a half of springing brought him to the front house, to the owners of which he was to be sold, and then pushed on his marathon journey across farm two miles further down the road. The first two neighbors took a rope and a stick and proceeded to rope the fat little thing into the well but it was too much for them. Further on the path of the beast, led by the putting of the back, below the shoulders and again below the hind legs, more cautiously this time, and what was their surprise to discover running towards them the fat little thing, looking very much as if he were a piece of meat, and expressing his fear and indignation with his "wool" words? A gray old hatter, the two men reached a short distance and lay down in a hollow to catch the fat little thing, and to observe the second party of stretcher bearers who were now about to arrive. Incidentally, they discovered the oxen who had been and peacefully chewing their cud.

The new arrivals immediately erected a heavy tripod over the well equipped with black and white, and raised the unfortunate beast. One man volunteered to stand on his rope and attach it to the back. He was lowered away into the depths only to make the acquaintance of Mr. Barker at close range. About this time the men to lifting arose and gave a cheer of encouragement—perhaps. Harry's consternation was indescribable. "I don't mind being pulled myself, but I am sorry to have made fool of six other men," was his apologetic remark. His devoted neighbors did not put into the well to pass the night with his precious halberd. With all his faults, they loved him still.

What would Scotland be without her Harry Lauder, what the United States would be without her Mark Twain for though dead, they live. This is what the prairie community would be without its Harry. He may not grow so many bushels of wheat, and his premises may be more readily mistaken for a junk dealer's place than for a demonstration farm, but perhaps he is getting more out of life, and what is more important, putting more into life, than his more worldly successful neighbor. Just when body and spirit are completely exhausted, when the long hours of the seedling season, or when the long practice of drought, and the hot winds have shrivelled up the crop nearly to the vanishing point, and your faith in God is at its breaking point, and you are ready to curse your Maker and your own fool brains for ever coming to this ill-fated country, or just when the wife's nerves are in that racked condition which makes her sit down and weep bitter tears over a trivial incident, such as the churn tipping over and spilling the hard brought butter about one's feet—Harry—bless his merry soul! He has not noticed the hot winds and if they are brought to his attention the reminder only brings forth the sage remarks that this life is but a preparation for the next. Then he launches forth upon a diatribe of how his line-backed broncho "mixed it" with the buggy he had borrowed to take the summer's eggs to store. Bugles and bronchos and eggs were never intended to go together anyway unless you wanted a salad. Give him his good old bludge and let him work your passage on a sure thing. By the way, he had called at the Brown to have their washed and they showed him the new baby—as though a barber would wash a baby's head. He had ventured to opine that if there was a good snowfall this winter it might start a crop of hair on the baby's head by spring. He had been told what Peter Brown said when he first was shown the baby brother. "Oh, my son's got a Teddy, and it ain't no wonder."

"When the Young Man Dreams"

Drawn By

NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1920, International Feature Service, Inc.

Oh, fortunate young man, do you wonder what he's doing? No, you don't, for you say at once, "Of course he's in Paradise!" and he is! And that may be equivalent to saying he's the only specimen of attractive man who happens to be round with nothing to do. He's without rivals. Wouldn't you like to be in his shoes? Just think, one lovely creature to play to you—love duties, naturally—another to offer you bon bon, another to fan you ever so gently, another to bring an iced lemonade, and other just to sit and gaze at you? And to add to the completeness of the scene, the young moon hanging in the sky. It may be a dream. If it is, won't it be a cruel disappointment when the sleeper wakes and finds the dream maidens gone? That's the way with everything perfect, but then he can hope it may come true some day.
